Willkie Reports to FDR; Insists There Has Been Needless Delay on Front

Declares Germany Will Never Conquer Russia and Reports Statements He Made in Moscow

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14. (P)—Back from his globe-girdling tour, Wendell L. Willkie conferred with President Roosevelt tonight and emerged from the White House still sticking to his stand that there had been needless delay in opening a second front.

Although he said that in his judgment "Germany will never conquer Russia," he hammered away again at the second front theme in a session with reporters.

Asked whether he thought there had been "needless delay," he said that was the conclusion that might be drawn from what he said at Moscow and what he was saying tonight.

Plans Report to People

Clad in a battered hat and a blue suit plainly showing the effects of his 31,000-mile journey, Willkie announced in a formal statement that he would now devote himself to "making careful, crystal-clear reports to the American people."

"How long that will take I don't know," he continued. "I do know—because I have found out at first hand—that a lot of us, including public officials, are going to have to stretch our muscles and our minds before we win."

He said he based his appeal for a second front on an analysis of the recommendations of military leaders of Britain, Russia, China and the United States. And he told reporters he had had considerable experience in judging recommendations of technical experts.

Has His Own Ideas

He had his own ideas where a second front should be opened, he said, but he kept it to himself.

The man who opposed President Roosevelt in the 1940 elections, as the Republican party's presidential nominee, circled the world in fifty days as the chief executive's personal representative. He visited the Middle East, Russia and China, arriving in Washington in the late afternoon. Then, for an hour and a half, he gave what he described as very frank observations and conclusions to the president. He would not say specifically what he had reported and he preferred that Mr. Roosevelt say whether the president was satisfied with his mission and with his report.

Predicts Allied Victory

To a question what he thought of the cause of the United Nations, after making his tour of fourteen separate countries, Willkie replied that there were some things he wanted to comment on only after deliberation.

But, without qualification, he declared:

"Sure, we're going to win this war. We have the power and the resources on our side."

He added, however, that he was concerned over what the cost would be—not in money but in human lives and human values. And, he said, he was concerned whether we were going to win the peace.

He preferred not to answer a question whether he thought that there should be a "more intimate agreement with the Russians" on that point. The Republican leader indicated that he still thought one-man control of our armed forces

"WE CAN HOLD 'EM!"

"We can hold the Solomons and expand them," assures Rear Admiral John S. McCain, above, new chief of the United States Naval Bureau of Aeronautics. He stated that the United States has shown a sufficient superiority in materials and men to justify the assertion that we can hold our gains on Guadalcanal island.

Youngsters Rush To Join Army as New Law Looms

Recruiting Stations of Navy Also Busy Signing Up Applicants

By The Associated Press

Teen-agers are crowding recruiting stations in most sections of the nation, a survey disclosed last night. The recruiting tempo went up markedly as plans were speeded in Washington for drafting 18 and 19-year-olds.

The upswing in enlistments was experienced mostly in army recruiting offices. Navy authorities said the bulk of their enlistments normally were in the teen-age group.

At Detroit, army recruiting had swelled so by yesterday that Lieut. Col. Joseph L. Bachus, recruiting chief, added two rooms to the office and referred inquiries to a special staff of recruiting officers.

Parents Take a Hand

The Little Rock, Ark., recruiting station reported an increase in the number of parents asking about various branches of the army for which their teen-age sons might be eligible.

Army recruiting of youths 17-19 at Cleveland was up seventy-five per cent in a week, although the navy reported no noticeable rise there.

More than 350 of 500 army recruits at Philadelphia were under 20, and at Baltimore hundreds jammed stations on one of their busiest days.

At Rochester, N. Y., recruiting of youngsters doubled since Monday. Recruiting at Buffalo, N. Y., was up seventy-five per cent the first three days this week over the first three of last week.

Navy Breaks Records

The marine corps at Chicago said the feats of its men in the Solomons had been a great stimulus to enlistments. The navy reported it had been breaking all records, but did not attribute the jump to draft prospects for 18 and 19-year-olds.

The army reported a seventy-five per cent rise in enlistment of boys, with numerous inquiries since President Roosevelt's radio speech. The coast guard also reported a definite increase.

Army enlistments of teen-agers at Indianapolis was up about twenty-five per cent, and at Louisville, Ky., about twenty-four per cent.

Navy recruiting was up eight per cent yesterday and today at Louisville.

Chief Petty Officer Irvin C. Ruff, a veteran of nineteen years in the navy, brought his son, Irving Stanley Ruff, 18, to the Norfolk recruiting station for enlistment. Many youths brought their mothers to the coast guard station there to sign papers to avoid delay in their enlistment.

GENERAL MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, AUSTRALIA, Thursday, Oct. 15. (P)—Heavier fighting has developed in the Owen Stanley mountains, where Australian troops are engaged in driving toward the north shore of New Guinea, an Allied communiqué said today.

The increased scale of the action amid the jungle covered peaks north of Myola was accompanied by air attacks in the Waiapu area, behind the Japanese front lines, and against Lae, an enemy shore base on New Guinea some 150 miles north-westward from the scene of the principal fighting.

The latter took place, the communiqué said, in the vicinity of Templeton's crossing, marking a further advance by General MacArthur's troops.

Hilter and Mussolini Reported At Odds Over Conduct of War

By E. B. SULLIVAN

LONDON, Oct. 14. (P)—Reports of a widening rift between Germany and Italy came from neutral European capitals today as Hitler's Gestapo strongarm chief visited Rome and conferred at length with Mussolini in what seemed obviously to be something more than a social call.

Army Draft Law Plans Revealed To Committees

Stimson and Others Testify at Hearings on Calling of Boys

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14. (P)—Speeding hearings on the bill to draft 18 and 19-year-olds, Congress heard the American high command disclose plans today to begin calling up these youths in December to weed out present soldiers considered incapable of carrying the terrific burden of modern war, and to raise the army's total strength to 7,500,000 men in 1943.

It was also disclosed that selective service plans to call up 100,000 men with dependent wives next month, but hopes, if the new bill to draft youths is passed, to put off drafting married men with children until late in 1943.

From Secretary of War Stimson, from General George C. Marshall, chief of staff, and from Admiral Ernest J. King, fleet commander-in-chief, came urgent appeals to Senate and House committees to approve the new draft bill quickly.

Will Double Size of Army

It was Stimson who revealed the 7,500,000 man goal, which compares with an army of 4,250,000 men at present and which would be almost twice the size of the army at the end of World War No. 1.

General Marshall told the Senate Military committee the army would send home men considered physically unfit, and was investigating the possibility of releasing numbers of older men when the youths enter the service.

The average age of the combat army, he warned, "has risen to a point not at all acceptable to the War department." One division he cited had an average age of 26 in June, 27 in July and 30 in August.

On a recent visit to a 2,500 bed hospital at Fort Bragg, N. C., he said, he was shocked to find so many "old men" there.

"Old Men" in Hospital

The beds seemed to me to be filled with old men," he said, adding that he must apologize for using that term to describe a man around 40 years of age.

He said he found one man, 43 years old, who had been taken off a machine tool in a war plant, and was in the hospital with four complaints, including possible angina and hernia, two weeks after his induction into the army.

Those men, he said, were a burden, not an addition to the army. Even in amphibious divisions, which will be called upon to do "the toughest kind of fighting," he had found 39-year-old privates.

Modern fighting demands youthful vigor, he said—"you can't fight a battle today and rest tomorrow nowadays."

Asked by Senator Hill (D-Ala.) whether passage of the pending bill would "take the strain off older men," he said:

Favors Early Action

"I am looking into it to see what we can do about getting them back home. Not only about getting them back, but how quickly we can get them back."

Meanwhile, a provision in pending legislation requiring that the 18 and 19 year olds be given twelve months' training before going into combat appeared certain to be deleted because of the army's objections that it would tie its hands in possible emergencies.

Chairman May (D-KY) said after a white house conference that he would not insist on the provision, contained in draft legislation he introduced.

Major Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director, appeared before the Senate committee, and outlined the draft prospects this way, provided the new draft bill passes:

100,000 Married Men Next Month

It probably will be necessary to call 100,000 married men with dependent wives next month to fill the quotas. Then the 18 and 19-year-olds would fill the normally expected quotas until about April 1, 1943. After that, Hershey said he expected the situation to revert to about its present status, adding he hoped to avoid calling up married men with children until the last quarter of 1943.

The selective service director also testified that about 5,500,000 persons are employed by the federal, state and local governments, and that at least some of them would have to be called into uniform.

Lt. Gen. Joseph T. McNamara, deputy chief of staff, said the army expected to have 5,000,000 men by the end of this year, which would be the jump to draft prospects for 18 and 19-year-olds.

Hans Borchers Under Guard in Resort in Chile

Former Nazi Consul General in New York Suspected of Spying

SANTIAGO, Chile, Oct. 14. (P)—Dr. Hans Borchers, former German consul general in New York who turned up in Chile without diplomatic or consular credentials, was reported today under police guard at the seaside resort of Zapallar where United States Ambassador Claude G. Bowes usually spends his Chilean summer vacations.

Surveillance was placed over the roving German soon after Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles in a speech in the United States accused Chile and Argentina of permitting Axis operations against ships of the United Nations.

Welles did not name Chile and Argentina, but he referred to two South American countries maintaining relations with the Axis, and Chile and Argentina are the only such nations.

President Juan Antonio Rios of Chile then postponed a visit to the United States which he had planned at the invitation of President Roosevelt.

It was understood that three men arrested last week as German spies and refused permission to enter Argentina would be sent in custody to Zapallar, a Pacific shore vacation spot north of Valparaiso. The three were named as Alfred Kleiber, Ludwig Russ and Wilhelm Dorchbach.

Ousted from U. S.

Borchers was ousted from the United States in 1941 when the German consulates there were closed by federal order, and was returned to Germany via the U.

Five Americans Discover Japanese Landing Party and Escape Uninjured

(Editor's note: The following account of action in the Solomons island was written by a United States Marine Corps combat correspondent at the scene, and was distributed by the Associated Press).

By Sergeant James W. Hurlbut, GUADALCANAL, Solomon Islands, Sept. 20 (Delayed) — Two navy men, two coast guardsmen and I, in a small boat, chanced upon a Japanese landing party on the northwest tip of Guadalcanal today, and lived to tell about it.

The selective service director also testified that about 5,500,000 persons are employed by the federal, state and local governments, and that at least some of them would have to be called into uniform.

Lt. Gen. Joseph T. McNamara, deputy chief of staff, said the army expected to have 5,000,000 men by the end of this year, which would be the jump to draft prospects for 18 and 19-year-olds.

Find Rubber Boat

The navy fliers were reported to be floating in a rubber boat between Savo Island and Cape Esperance. We arrived in the area shortly before 6 a. m. Four of our planes, including a small navy amphibian, soon appeared overhead to help in the search.

While on this mission we discovered the enemy landing party. We moved up to within 300 yards and obtained a close-up view of it before all hell broke loose.

In our boat, in addition to myself, were Lieutenant (junior grade) Arthur R. Gibson, U.S.N.R., Buffalo, N. Y., the officer in charge, Coxswain Samuel B. Roberts, U.S.N.R., Portland, Oregon; Raymond J. Evans, signalman, first class, Seattle, Wash., and D. A. Munro, signalman, first class, of Cle Elum, Wash., both coast guardians.

George F. Johnson, 85, Feels Like Draftee

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Oct. 14. (P)—George F. Johnson, head of the Endicott Johnson Corporation which employs 23,000, celebrated his eighty-fifth birthday today by inspecting the twenty-seven factories of the shoe-producing organization.

He said the U-boats had been "forced further ashore by the defensive-offensive tactics of the United Nations" and had moved their activities to the South African coastal waters where enemy action had been confined mainly to mine-sowing and occasional forays by surface craft and U-boats.

Armed with a machine gun, we set out shortly after 5 a. m. in an open landing boat to pick up the two-man crew of a navy dive bomber which had been forced down at sea off Savo Island.

Moscow Reports Repulse of Nazi Stalingrad Unit

German Shock Troops Believed in State of Exhaustion

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

MOSCOW, Thursday, Oct. 15 (AP)—The Red army, fighting in the welcome chill of an approaching winter, repulsed several more tank-supported German attacks in the Stalingrad and Caucasus areas yesterday without yielding ground, the Soviet command announced early today.

For the second straight day the communiqué reported no significant change in the general situation. The German shock troops apparently were in a state of temporary exhaustion or were holding back for replenishment or to switch to another theater.

Two companies of Nazis were reported to have been killed, and five German guns, seven machinegun positions, and three dugouts destroyed by one Soviet unit operating inside the ruined city where the enemy's attacks have noticeably faltered within the last week.

Only "Local" Battles

Northwest of the city only "battles of local importance" occurred, with the Russians fending off an attack by two infantry companies which lost 100 men, the communiqué said. Nazi prisoners also were taken in this area where one dispatch said the Red army had dislodged the enemy from hilltops which had dominated Russian supply roads.

In the Mordok area of the central Caucasus where a snowy mantle was descending the mountain slopes, the Germans also were contained, the Russians said.

Several German tanks supporting a German infantry regiment broke through Russian defenses in this area individually, but the communiqué said "fighting went on for the destruction of this group of enemy tanks." On other sectors, it added, "attacks by small groups of Germans were repelled."

Two Trains Destroyed

Along the Black Sea coast southeast of Novorossisk our artillerymen destroyed two trains loaded with ammunition at a German-occupied railway station," the bulletin said.

The Russians had reported yesterday that the Stalingrad area was consolidating its positions within the city, and likewise were containing the enemy's thrusts in the Caucasus.

The noon communiqué, dealing with the Black Sea area southeast of Novorossisk, said an enemy force which had penetrated into the rear of a Russian unit had been cut off from its main force by counter-attack, with 400 Germans killed and considerable material captured.

Destroy German Cavalry

Marine raiders landed from the sea by motor launch destroyed a German cavalry force, blew up an ammunition dump, destroyed a radio station and captured staff documents in a populated place in this area. They "returned to their base without losses," the communiqué said.

The German high command claimed that one German division operating between Maikop and Tuapse in the Black Sea coastal area had captured 100 fortified mountain strong points. The communiqué added: "In Stalingrad and on the Don front some counter-attacks and advances launched by the Soviets were repelled."

When and where the German army will strike again remains to be seen, but little more than a month is left before the second winter war in Russia sets in.

morrow under procedure requiring unanimous consent for its consideration. If any member blocks this action, however, the bill probably will go over for consideration later under such procedure as the Rules committee may provide.

No Level Fixed

Unlike the recent act authorizing and directing the president to stabilize wages at the levels of Sept. 15 as far as practicable, the rent bill stipulated no level at which rents should be frozen. Steps already taken to control rents under existing law, however, have aimed at bringing about reductions to the levels of last March 1.

The provision extending rent control to the transient rates charged by hotels and rooming houses was not originally requested by Byrnes but was inserted by committee members. The Office of Price Administration already has imposed such controls in certain defense areas but the bill would make the control nationwide.

Many Increases Reported

Byrnes said that by an apparent oversight, Congress failed to include rent controls in the recently enacted price, wage and salary stabilization bill. He told of reports of rent increases from virtually every state. They were noticed, he said, in commercial properties, including grocery stores, butcher and wearing apparel shops, as well as in residential buildings.

The Office of Price Administration has a power to control residential rents in designated defense areas. It issued an order Oct. 5 classifying the entire country as a defense area preparatory to imposing rent control after Dec. 5 under the old law.

Reported among the tinders that fed the flames of distrust were:

Cause of Distrust

1—Italy's permission for the landing of Myron C. Taylor's plane in Rome, facilitating the recent visit by President Roosevelt's special envoy to the Vatican for talks with the pope;

2—U. S. Attorney General Francis Biddle's announcement that after Oct. 19 the 600,000 Italians in the United Nations no longer would be under restrictions as enemy aliens.

Biddle disclosed in Washington that copies of his Columbus Day address announcing the decision were being dropped in Italy as a psychological warfare move and were expected to have "tremendous effect."

"Cordial" Conference

Presumably the translated copies of the speech were being dropped by British or American planes operating over Italian territory from Mediterranean bases.

The Berlin radio announced that Himmler, "in Rome for a private visit as a guest of the Italian government." Later it broadcast a DNB dispatch from Rome that Hitler "has been received by Il Duce, with whom he had a lengthy and cordial conference."

The currency of reports of strained relations between Berlin and Rome suggested, however, that it was more likely that Mussolini was on the carpet before the man whose Gestapo is charged with keeping Italy to toeing the mark.

The Basel National Zeitung's Istanbul correspondent reported rumors heard in Turkey that Hitler probably would take time off from the Russian front soon for a personal conference with Mussolini.

Report from Stockholm

The report that the Italian-American developments were a root of the discord came from the National Zeitung's Swedish correspondent who quoted the Stockholm Da-gazette Nyheter.

From Ankara there were reports that Italy's failure to cope with continued anti-Axis outbreaks in dismembered Yugoslavia also was a cause of German dissatisfaction, and that Germany might take over control of Slovenia and Croatia, and possibly demand full control of the Adriatic port of Trieste as well. Italy got Trieste from Austria as a prize of the first World war.

American Pilots

shot down in battles over the island today.

Tailles through yesterday showed only seven of the island's Spitfires had been lost in the intensified warfare.

There were four mass raids up to mid-afternoon Tuesday, and the attackers left the wreckage of seventeen bombers and fighters behind. In the previous night, a British night-fighter destroyed one German bomber.

Forty Axis aircraft had been downed Sunday and Monday.

British Fighter Lost

Only one British fighter was lost Tuesday and the defense was so tight that there was practically no damage to the airfields which were the Germans' targets. Two civilians were killed.

The Germans claimed that the British lost thirteen planes over Malta Tuesday and that only one German bomber failed to return. In the fighting over El Alamein, the enemy claimed six British fighters were shot down and only two German planes lost.)

U-Boat Warfare

We now see a new phase beginning with U-boat concentrations," he said, adding that the operations presumably were carried out with a complete supply set-up since "it would be uneconomical to send a submarine from France to the cape without some source of supply in the area."

The spokesman surmised that the new threat would be destruction of refueling contacts and concluded that Allied warships were seeking them out.

Coin Club Officers Are Installed Here

The newly elected officers of the Cumberland Coin Club were installed last night at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club following a banquet.

Officers installed were Charles E. Morris, president; Arthur G. Fuller, vice-president; and Charles H. Hyde, secretary-treasurer. The four past presidents of the organization officiated at the ceremonies. They are Martin L. Johnson, Fred P. Keyser, Holmes H. Cessna and William L. Wilson, Sr.

An announcement was made at the banquet of the appointment of Cessna by the American Numismatic Association as district secretary for Maryland. No plans have been made for the coming year due to the war effort and other things such as tire and gasoline rationing which would prevent many gatherings of members from nearby towns.

Arrangements for the banquet, which was attended by twenty-five members, were made by Hugh G. Finkhouser.

Berthold Schwartz, a German mon, is generally considered to be the inventor of firearms.

make a rather heavy draft in the next few months."

Admiral King urged the drafting of youths in these words:

"Do it now—do it all at once, and not in bites, saying 'we'll take those 19 and those 18 later on.'

Although the navy is getting its men by voluntary enlistments, he said, it would have the same problems as the army if and when it had to turn to the selective service system for its recruits.

While Stimson and Marshall testified before the House Military Affairs committee, Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director told the Senate Military committee it was a question of inducing younger men or draftees into the group of married men with dependents.

Hershey also was called before the House committee, which planned to report the 18-19-year draft bill to the House for a vote this week.

Meanwhile General Marshall hurried from the House committee to voice his views before the Senate group, which accelerated its plans to get speed congressional action.

Sees No Alternative

Stimson told the House committee it was "no more pleasant to me to consign the young men, the sons of my friends, the grandsons of my friend, to the hideous character of modern war than it is for any member of the committee."

"But if we are to save civilization," he added solemnly, "this is the only road which we can follow."

His estimate of 7,500,000 men in army uniform in 1943—exclusive of men who would be in other services, such as the navy and the marine corps—includes 2,200,000 men in the air forces, 3,300,000 in organized ground units, 1,000,000 in the services of supply, and 1,000,000 either in training or training other men for replacement assignment and the services of supply.

Conservative of Strength

The figures he described as "a conservative estimate," subject to revision upward. The 3,300,000 ground forces men, he said, represent as many as the army feels it can train, supply and send overseas and includes men already abroad or in training at home for foreign service.

Neither Stimson nor the chief of staff favored restrictions in pending legislation to forbid the use of teenage soldiers in combat service until they had received at least one year of training.

"I certainly do," Stimson said when asked if he believed it would be unwise to leave that provision in the bill. Marshall urged the Congress to "have some faith in us and in our good sense" in the matter of writing restrictions into the law.

Acknowledging that the lower draft age might play havoc with the nation's higher education system by draining youths from high schools and colleges, Stimson said the War department did not desire to "needlessly destroy the influences of college" but bluntly added:

Younger Men Best

"There won't be much need for college if we don't win the war."

The nucleus of the army, he stressed, should be young, vigorous men with the stamina to face a ruthless and implacable enemy.

Stimson said surveys showed the average age of army divisions was slowly rising, having jumped from twenty-six years and two months last march to twenty-eight years and two months in August.

"That's too high," he said, adding that "when the crack comes," the older men would have to be supplantied with younger men, untrained with the divisions then in battle, and this would weaken the fighting army."

"Whatever the size" of the army, he said, the "one sole criterion for gauging its strength will be its striking power—based on calculations of mobile force capable of offensive action, which is the only way we can win this war."

Men now coming from induction centers are "too old for front line fighters," the secretary declared.

While twelve months is the normal time required for training, Stimson told the committee, he did not want the army tied by any legal requirement that teen-age soldiers have that much training before going into combat service because "unexpected emergencies" might arise.

He explained that many divisions were desirable. He recalled that as early as last February, he had suggested a single head and that Gen. Douglas MacArthur be picked for the job.

Despite the fact that military men in Washington said no layman should make suggestions on military affairs, Willkie said, "I think a great body of people in the United States, including some military men, thought it would be a good idea."

Talked with Experts

"Now, on a second front," he said on, "you understand I talked to military men all over the world, in Egypt, all the countries in the middle east, with Russian, American, Canadian, British and Chinese generals before I made my suggestion on a second front. May I say without boast that I had considerable experience in judging recommendations of technical men."

"I applied my judgment to the various opinions of the experts."

Most of the leaders of governments of the United Nations, Willkie said, followed a similar procedure in determining courses of action.

That was what he did in reaching a decision that a second front "is feasible and possible."

He said he had said that in Moscow and was saying it again today. He remarked that Mr. Roosevelt had told him that any report that the president had criticized him while he was abroad was "entirely wrong."

The Republican chieftain said some reports had reached him from newspaper correspondents abroad—he implied that they had mentioned presidential criticism—but he did not know what actually had been said back here.

At a recent press conference, Mr. Roosevelt was asked for comments on Willkie's remarks about a second front. He brushed the request aside, saying he had read only headlines on the stories and thought it not worthwhile to read the stories themselves because they were speculative.

West Virginia Fed Up, Too

WEST VIRGINIANS, too, are pretty well fed up with the sort of bossing they have had in recent years, according to the Wheeling Intelligencer, which believes the time is ripe for an improving change.

"To begin with," it states, "there is resentment at the airy manner in which Governor Neely tosses off the responsibilities of public office. It was bad enough when he left his seat in the United States Senate to run for governor. But what excuse can there be, a great many people who voted for Neely in 1940 are asking themselves, for his desertion of the governorship to try for the Senate again? What excuse, that is, beyond the satisfying of a towering personal ambition? A great many people are asking themselves what would happen were Neely elected. Would he cling to his present office and create a vacancy in the Senate? Would he resign as governor and impose the cost of a special election on the people? Would he run the state house by remote control from Washington? These and other questions of like nature are running through the minds of countless West Virginians who want no Huey Longism in this state."

"That's one issue. There are many others. The gross extravagance of the administration at a time when the people are carrying an enormous load of inescapable war taxes. The high-handed tactics of the state house steam roller as evidenced in such disgraceful spectacles as the recent Kanawha county judicial convention. The complete and ruthless politicalization of the vast state bureaucracy. These are only a few of the sore spots. Add the possibilities of a badly confused labor situation and a break in the Democratic party ranks beyond any possibility of healing, and the Neely political row becomes a weedy and stony one indeed."

"Against this, the Republicans present a strong, able ticket, commanding public respect from top to bottom, a united party and a constructive program."

"It is apparent that the Democratic ticket, congressional candidates and all, is only as strong or as weak as Governor Neely. There is reason to believe that Neely reached his peak in the primary; that the state house bush beaters had nearly every vote out they could control. If, therefore, the Republican campaign is concentrated on getting out the vote, there should be a sweeping turn-over in West Virginia next month. We are confident that a large majority of the voters of this state are fed up with conditions and are ripe for a change."

"The only question is: Will enough of them go to the polls?"

That is the same question which confronts the voters of Maryland. They failed to do so in the primary election, but they should do so at the November election, and if they do, the chances for a needed change in state affairs will be heightened. Even though it might be impossible to overcome the strongly entrenched hold upon the state government the present political machine enjoys, a big opposition vote would have a most salutary effect. But, Republicans should not take it for granted that the state machine cannot be overthrown. It has been done on previous occasions in Maryland and it can be done again. Certainly, as in West Virginia, the time is full ripe for it.

Nazi Brutality Calls For Punishment

THE NAZIS having failed to heed President Roosevelt's August warning that the authors of barbaric crimes against the people of the occupied countries would be punished after the war, he has reiterated his position.

The German Gestapo was thoroughly convinced that if the Allies chose to make Holland their second front the Dutch would assist the invasion in every way they could. But after two years of failure the Germans have given up any hope of placating the Hollander, who are as stubborn and defiant in this war as the Belgians were in the last. Germany has now begun a systematic depopulation of The Netherlands as well as a wholesale and ruthless murder of civilian "hostages."

Such brutality can only breed future strife. Already the Dutch government in exile has passed the death sentence in absentia on Nazi torturers. Norway, Poland, Czechoslovakia — all the occupied countries—are demanding postwar justice. It seems unlikely that, after victory, the infuriated masses in the occupied countries will be content to leave vengeance to the orderly process of law. The course of this war appears certain to take over much of the business of civilized vengeance in stride.

Thus victory vengeance seems to be one aspect of postwar planning that will fairly largely take care of itself—even as the curse of unconscionable national leaders will interminably shadow their peoples. In contrast, the struggling people of the United Nations may well deny themselves the emotional outlet of vengeful shadow boxing, and continue to devote all their physical and spiritual energies to the grim business of hammering home the determined context of their cause.

This is the more effective way of dissipating the world's nightmare and dispersing its horrendous shapes into the salutary unfolding of a better day.

Whitworth's Candidacy Is Quite Appealing

THE REPUBLICAN STATE PLATFORM pays just tribute to the party nominee for attorney general, Horace P. Whitworth, Westport lawyer.

"We are proud to present for attorney general," it states, "Hon. Horace P. Whitworth, of Allegany county, who is a gentleman of high character, splendid legal learning and ripe experience at the Maryland Bar."

All this is true and much more in laudatory tenor could be said about the qualifications of this nominee for the state office for which he has been named. Those who know Whitworth know him to be a man of unimpeachable integrity and of friendly mein, such as is requisite for one in high state office, with a deep regard for fairness as a fundamental principle in all dealings.

A particularly appealing thing about the Whitworth candidacy is the fact that there is no taint of the machine politician about him. He has acceded to a call from his party to stand for public service regardless of personal considerations and all know that he is working earnestly in the campaign at considerable personal sacrifice and know also that if elected he will fulfill the duties of the office with the object solely of serving the people to the best of his ability with no thought whatever of building up a personal political machine. He merits the heartiest support at the polls on November 3.

Reports Can't Win the War

GOVERNMENT REPORTS AND QUESTIONNAIRES have become a heavy burden on war production industries according to a survey just completed by the National Association of Manufacturers. During the past three months eighty-four companies were obliged to complete 3,479 reports to various agencies of the government and 495,480 valuable man-hours were consumed in the process.

In one company alone, six separate departments or divisions spend either full or part time on the compilation of reports for the federal government. Each year this company has been called upon to complete 545 reports on sixty-six different types for twelve different federal government agencies, in addition to the 478 other reports required by the state, county, and city government—a total of 1,023 reports a year.

As each report covers from one to twenty pages and varies from ten to 100 questions, it is evident that the government is drawing off a lot of productive war time to say nothing of the $90,000 these reports cost this one company.

What do war material producers think of this avalanche of "hurry-up" reports that keep piling up on them almost every hour of the day? What would you think if you were trying to prepare Thanksgiving dinner for a big family and you were called to the door every few minutes to answer the questions of house-to-house canvassers?

If Hitler continues to Germanize those hapless European countries, at the end of the war there may have to be a short pause for nation identification.

Coins of the future, we read, may be made of glass. This should put a new meaning in the old phrase of "invisible funds."

She Thanked Him

By MARSHALL MASLIN

I remember a young woman whom I never saw, never heard of until after she was dead. And all I know about her is what she said as she was dying. Just seven words but they seem to me the finest of all the dying words I have ever heard.... So, though I know little about her, I'm sure it's enough.

Some of her friends and she went out into the ocean in a launch when the waves were high and troublesome and they got into difficulties. Two boys on shore saw their trouble and set out in a little boat to save them as they struggled in the stormy waters.... The boys' boat was upset and they, too, were soon in trouble, but they did the best they were able. One boy took this young woman by the arm and began to swim toward her. A wave threw the boy against a rock and hurt his arm and broke his hold on the girl; he could help her no longer and could barely help himself.

But he said afterwards that she smiled at him through her pallor and fear and said: "Thank you for trying to save me."

It was the end and she knew it. She was lost with the shore so near and she might easily have thought only of herself and pleaded with him to save her. But she remembered that a stranger had tried to save her and though he had failed, she did owe him thanks even in the terrible face of death.... She had always said thank you and this was no time to be forgetting her manners.... So she said, "Thank you for trying to save me" and turned her pale face away into a pitiless green wave and was seen no more.

I've always been grateful to that young woman. And if I could, I'd thank her for her good manners, for remembering to say thank you. Sometimes, it seems to me, she saved the faces of all of us with seven courteous words. By the way she died, she lifted plain living to the peaks and made it seem worthy.... She died years ago but I still remember her. I wish to remember her seven words as long as I live and to be reminded of them often.

Who would not wish to feel so about a deed so simple and so perfect?

Aggressive Mood In Government Is Now Detected

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—Professional politicians in the Senate and House, many Democrats as well as Republicans, are still grumbling mildly to themselves about the president's fireside chat.

They all seemed to consider it irritating at one point or another.... His raising of the 18-19 year old draft matter just before their election (not his). His avoidance of decisive recommendations on man-power.... But, above all, his timing of the speech to blanket a late afternoon announcement of the loss of three cruisers in the Solomons last August.

To me it seemed the opposite, in fact the soundest political speech of the year. It signified that the most embarrassing vital war matters which the government was going to put off until after election are to be met straightforwardly.

But, above and beyond that, it showed this government is swinging away from the defensive and into aggressive action.

Caution Tone Gone

Gone was the old tone of caution and warning—caution that we must not expect much military action before next year, warning that we must realize we have a war on.

When you couple this with recent administrative steps, you will find the government is taking the offensive in more than mere speech. His appointment of single-headed controls over the confused governmental economic policies and over rubber has strengthened this change of front, and given it substance.

Not only that, but the new war guide he offered the people carries a significant suggestion of the imminence of aggressive military action, not restricted to a second front, but in a vaster theater.

The conception which the public has of a "second front" comes mainly from Russia, and her immediate necessities. Stalin has been agitating for invasion of the continent to relieve pressure on his armies.

Term Avoided

Mr. Roosevelt avoided use of the term "second front." He said the military plan contemplates diversions for both China and Russia "by new offensives against Germany and Japan."

This could mean a heavy concentration against Rommel in Africa to annihilate him, perhaps a dozen different attacks between Norway and the Mediterranean islands, further stronger advances by MacArthur in the Southwest Pacific, the extinction of the last Japanese stronghold in the Aleutians (It is now a question of whether they can get out of there before they are bombed to pieces) and perhaps even invasion of Japan eventually through Russia, if Stalin will open up the supreme court.

Still Applicable

Educational and other restrictions can still be applied, and may well be expected in some states, in view of the complaint of southern congressmen that they consider the legislation deliberately offensive.

It cannot be passed in the Senate in time to affect this election anyway, except in one respect. It will lead northern negro organizations to believe they have won a victory.

Incidentally, the politicos from one southern state say a local Democratic city boss down there is in favor of the bill because he is tired of paying the poll tax to get all his negroes to vote in every election.

Differences from Congressmen

It seems to me the president, not on his trip, but before, reached the decision that the congressional conception of good politics was not very good this time.

While the 18-19-year-old draft will not be popular with mothers from a standpoint of self-interest, it will certainly be popular with older persons from the same standpoint. But, regardless of politics, the army says it wants these younger boys, and certainly older men are needed elsewhere to sustain both military and civilian life.

In the man-power matter also, the president merely turned down those of his officials who want to handle it the Hitler way, by an arbitrary draft.

Of politics, there was plenty in the speech, true enough. But as it signifies a swing to action, a move to get off the defensive in spirit and movement, and follows many a line critically suggested in this column, I think congressional criticism is pretty.

ONE DEPARTMENT CONGRESS WON'T HAVE TO INVESTIGATE

Second Front Depends on the Factor Of Ultimate Victory, Sullivan Declares

By MARK SULLIVAN

In President Roosevelt's latest speech, his only allusion to a second front did not use the words "second front". He merely said, "Many major decisions of strategy have been made. One of them—on which we have all agreed—relates to the necessity of diverting enemy forces from Russia and China to other theaters of war by new offensives against Germany and Japan."

It does not mean negroes will be automatically allowed to vote in the eight southern states affected. In those states, the primaries are the only important parts of the elections.

Some of the states have laws now, giving political parties the right to fix qualifications of voters in primaries. These laws have been upheld by the supreme court.

Still Applicable

Educational and other restrictions can still be applied, and may well be expected in some states, in view of the complaint of southern congressmen that they consider the legislation deliberately offensive.

It cannot be passed in the Senate in time to affect this election anyway, except in one respect. It will lead northern negro organizations to believe they have won a victory.

From the context of this passage, every one could infer that Mr. Roosevelt hoped this allusion to a second front would be the last, that public clamor about it would cease. But the clamorers are earnest and energetic. Within a few hours of Mr. Roosevelt's speech a street meeting in behalf of a second front—that is, a specific second front in Europe to help Russia—was held within a few blocks of the White House. Those who wish a second front, ingenious and persistent, will continue to find occasions for talk. One opportunity may be the arrival home of Mr. Wendell L. Willkie.

Willkie Contradictory

The statement of Mr. Willkie when in Moscow, which encouraged second-fronters to agitate, was that we and Britain ought to establish a second front in Europe at the earliest possible moment our military leaders will approve. Thus far Mr. Willkie's statement need not have excited acrimony—it conceded that discussion about a second front was a matter for military leaders. But Mr. Willkie continued with a second sentence which practically denied his first: "And perhaps some of them will need some prodding." This implied that the decision is not for the military leaders only, that the public has a say.

The American military leaders who decide this and other questions of strategy are four men—Admirals Leahy and King, Generals Marshall and Arnold. They sit almost continuously. They devote their thought to winning an earth-wide war. We can be sure they take into account every military factor that has a bearing. But we can also be sure—they do not take Gallup polls of public opinion.

Not Exclusively Military

True, decision about a second front in Europe is not exclusively a military one, in the narrow sense. Our high command must take into account factors of public psychology and morale, ours and that of our Allies. It is vital in our conduct of the war that Russia and all our Allies be kept alive and strong as fighting forces. It is peculiarly necessary that the Russian army not be destroyed as a fighting unit.

If, any time during the past summer, there arose apparent danger that the Russian army might be destroyed, or that the morale of the Russian leaders might be weakened—if any of these contingencies, the high command of Britain and the United States might reasonably have decided to attempt a second front, even though it were a small and not sufficiently prepared one, even though its success were doubtful.

As at present constituted, the machinery controlling the War Labor Board makes no provision for the handling of cases other than those brought by labor unions. So that unless a radical change is made, the only people who cannot obtain wage increases, no matter how inadequate their compensation may be, are those in the white collar group.

Green Re-Elected Head of AFL for Eighteenth Term

All Thirteen Vice Presidents Also Continued in Offices

By JOSEPH LOFTUS

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 14. (AP)—The American Federation of Labor re-elected President William Green, Secretary-Treasurer George Meany, and all thirteen vice-presidents to-day and retained all the fifteen officers on the executive council.

Accepting his eighteenth full term Green expressed belief "the year 1943 is going to be the decisive year, and some time in this decisive year the German machine is going to collapse of itself." He said labor must regard unity in its ranks in 1943 as a "solemn objective."

Back Soviet Workers

The convention, before adjourning tonight, approved a statement of policy on international labor relation saying the exclusion of Soviet trade unions and others from the Anglo-American trade union committee should not be construed as lack of support in any measure of the workers of Russia and other United Nations.

Boston was chosen for the 1943 convention.

John P. Frey, secretary of the Resolutions committee, put the convention on record as not opposing wartime "job-freezing," as such, but as asking only proper safeguards for the affected workers. He said in a talk to the delegates that was the interpretation of the word on manpower approved two days ago.

The convention also heard Daniel J. Tobin, teamsters' union president denounce A. Philip Randolph, delegate of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, for Randolph's comments yesterday on race discrimination and the Indian Nationalist question.

Sees Collapse of Nazis

"I believe within my heart that the year 1943 is going to be the decisive year, and I firmly believe that some time during this decisive year the German machine is going to collapse of itself," Green told the convention in his acceptance speech.

"That may be based upon hope, but at least it is my opinion, after giving careful thought to the facts of history, the record now being made, and an appraisal of the economic situation that must prevail within the central powers. Is it possible that the civilized processes of 2,000 years mean nothing and that the tyrants of ever-lasting punishment may triumph over the hosts of righteousness? I don't believe it. I still believe there is a

Receives Suspended Fine

GARRETT W. Voorhees, Baltimore, yesterday received a suspended fine of $5 in trial magistrates' court on a charge of failing to stop behind a school bus which was discharging passengers. Voorhees said the bus stopped along the Long post office on Route 40 and was completely off the highway.

In view of the circumstances Magistrate Frank A. Perdew suspended the fine. Trooper Charles D. McLane made the arrest.

UMW Opens Drive To Organize All Now Unorganized

Two Brazilian, One American and One Panamanian Vessel Lost

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Destruction of four United Nations merchant ships—two Brazilian, one American and one Panamanian—claimed forty-five crew casualties in submarine warfare off the South American coast, it was officially disclosed yesterday.

The navy revealed that thirty-three of the seventy-one-man crew aboard the Panamanian ship were dead or missing after two submarines struck at the vessel in August. Despite the concerted attack, the merchantman floated for two hours before sinking.

Heroic Seaman Dies

Heroism of one of the seamen, a poor swimmer who surrendered his lifeboat to a shipmate and then disappeared, marked one of the stirring incidents of this action.

Torpedoes sank the American vessel in two minutes, but only nine casualties were reported out of a crew of thirty-six, the navy said. One of the survivors, who reached a small Caribbean island, related:

"There were a dozen of us in the water, holding to an overturned lifeboat, within a minute after she struck. But the suction of the ship as she went down tore five men away and took them with her."

The Brazilian government announced that Nazi U-boats destroyed the 5,472-ton freighter Lages and the 2,730-ton Ozorio last Sept. 29, raising Brazil's ship losses to twenty-one since early 1942 when diplomatic relations with the Axis were broken off. Three of the Lages' forty-six-man crew were reported missing. The Ozorio carried thirty-eight.

The four latest United Nations losses boosted to 491 the Associated Press count of disclosed Western Atlantic ship sinkings since America's entry into the war.

Must Become More Powerful To Help Win War, Lewis Says

By JOHN FRYE

CINCINNATI, Oct. 14. (AP)—The United Mine Workers of America, urged by John L. Lewis to become more powerful to help win the war, today started a far-reaching new campaign to "organize the unorganized."

Closing their eight-day thirty-seventh biennial convention, the miners decided not to submit wage increase demands until negotiations for a two-year contract next March; promised to work forty-two hours instead of thirty-five a week as requested by Solid Fuels Co-ordinator Ickes, if the government would co-operate on prices, transportation, and priorities for mine equipment, and then heard President Lewis set these immediate organizational objectives:

Immediate Goals

1—"Great segments of agricultural workers are knocking at the door of the UMW for assistance in becoming free and independent citizens." He did not elaborate but associates predicted yesterday that grain and cattle fields would be sought first by District 50, a unit authorized by the convention to work outside the coal industry.

2—Twenty thousand chemical workers in the Kanawha valley of West Virginia who "must be organized into district 50." Lewis declared "it matters not if they are employed by Union Carbide or duPont—they are free men and women."

3—Fifty-thousand coal mine supervisory employees with no hiring or firing powers. These have been ineligible for UMW membership and have formed a union of their own, but the convention amended the constitution to admit them and Lewis described them as practical coal miners and former members whose standards are affected by the industry's wage structure.

No Raids on Unions

He again promised no raids on established unions.

"There is a task throughout the country," Lewis told the 2,800 delegates in his forty-five-minute closing speech. "We want to organize the unorganized. We can help our country more in the war effort by becoming more powerful as a union."

"We have demonstrated our attitude," Lewis said.

Local Couple Are Married Here in St. Mary's Rectory

Miss Mary Gertrude McHugh Becomes the Bride of James Thompson

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. McHugh, 114 South street, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary Gertrude McHugh, to James W. Thompson, son of Mrs. James Thompson, 941 Maryland avenue.

The ceremony was solemnized at 11 o'clock yesterday morning in the rectory of St. Mary's Catholic church, with the Rev. W. Joyce Russell officiating.

Mrs. Betty Hess, Eckhart, was maid of honor and Miss McHugh's only attendant. Thomas Patrick McHugh, brother of the bride, served as Mr. Thompson's best man.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Patrick Doolan, of Lonaconing, was attired in an ensemble of army blue with which she wore darker blue accessories and a shoulder corsage of gardenias. Her maid of honor wore an ice blue suit trimmed in fox navy blue accessories and a shoulder corsage of American Beauty roses.

The bride is a graduate of St. Mary's high school and the bridegroom was graduated from Pennsylvania Avenue High School; both are employed by the Celanese Corporation of America.

A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony. The table was centered with a large three-tiered bridal cake adorned with a miniature bride and bridegroom and decorated in pink roses. Canisters with white tapers were placed at either end of the table.

Besides the wedding party and those attending the ceremony other guests at the breakfast were Miss Janet Hessel, William Mumpher, city; and John Hailey, Butler, Pa.

Upon their return from a wedding trip to Akron, O., Mr. and Mrs. Thompson will reside at 941 Maryland avenue.

SYNOPSIS

Following her mother's death, red-haired MARY DEXTER leaves Omaha to take a job in the Nordex Aircraft plant in California. She shares an apartment with FRAN BURKE, night club singer and dancer. Friendship develops between Mary and Ken GRANT, young mechanical engineer, also newly employed at Nordex. Mary has been attracted to BRUCE MARTIN, Nordex test pilot, over whom a dark cloud seems to hover.

YESTERDAY: Mary goes swimming in the rain with Bruce.

CHAPTER TWELVE

FOR THE next fortnight, life took on a deceptively routine appearance. The rain stopped, and was followed by a period of warm sunshine. The hills turned green. Tiny lavender flowers covered the vacant lot next to the apartment. Mary could scarcely believe it was still winter. She loved the bus rides on days like these. Even the Nordex plant lost its forbidding aspect under the spell of sunshine and familiarity.

"I can see why people rush to the sunny south," she called to Fran from her shower, on a golden morning. "Listen to those birds. They never sang in February where I came from!" She wandered out onto their sunny balcony in her white robe, toweling her gleaming hair briskly. "Imagine a shampoo before breakfast, and drying it in the sun in February!"

"Stop chirping," said Fran. "Is there a bottom and a top side to seeds?" She was in her blue denim slacks and red sweater before a window box, industriously preparing the soil according to directions from a government bulletin. Mary paused to watch, vastly amused. Fran was carrying through an indignation campaign. On the wave of high enthusiasm, she had conceived the idea of a community Victory garden. She had tried to sell the idea to the apartment house owner, who also owned the adjoining vacant lot. But he had not felt the enterprise was necessary.

"But if they send the Japs all in our state," Fran had argued hotly, "we'll be without vegetables. What if the price of water is high? What if they do cost us as much as vegetables we buy at the stands? What if there aren't any vegetables ON the stands?" The landlord had refused to entertain such a disturbing supposition, and Fran had retreated grumbling. The window box had been Burke's idea of a rib, but Fran had taken him up on it. She'd grow them some vegetables, by cracky, and the landlord could get beri-beri for all of her.

After much reading of winter garden literature, they had settled to winter peas, radishes and carrots.

"But in the spring," Fran warned, "I'm going to carry dirt at night and plant the whole balcony. I'm perishing to try squash and green beans!"

They ate a gay breakfast on a couple of trays on the balcony so Mary could dry her hair and Fran could keep her eye on her freshly planted seeds "in case they sprout early." And they watched the small sailboat move lazily up the sapphire blue of the ocean. Children skated on the sidewalk below, calling back and forth in the excitement of being out of doors again. Housewives in gingham dresses and sweaters walked toward the markets and came back with their bags of groceries.

Their landlord's wife waved to them. "My husband won't let me take the car to the market any more," she laughed. "He says it needs its tires and I need the exercise."

"Tell him we all need a victory garden, too," shouted Fran. But she grinned good humoredly as the woman went on, chuckling.

Mary felt perverseness stealing over her. "It's so hard to believe," she sighed, "when the sun shines like this that war is going on—killing, plotting, treachery . . ." She had allowed herself to drift along with the sunny days, deliberately refusing to worry over the clouds she knew were gathering just beyond the horizon, accepting the gifts of these days casually as if they were to go on in peaceful, sunny rhythm, and accepting Bruce Martin's friendship, his rides, his flowers, his presence at the lunch table as if that, too, were the normal pattern. Somehow this seemed right—as though she were gathering an inner strength, just as her body was assimilating the sun's rays, for the long period of strain and trouble ahead.

"I don't know why," Fran complained, as she finished her coffee, "the Glass Hat had to be owned by a guy that has a 'fraidy cat for a wife, so that he has to go East so she won't get bombed."

"Don't you worry about getting another job?" Mary said warmly. She knew Fran had been troubled for days over the possible break-up of the band, though she'd die rather than admit it.

"Not worrying about getting another job," Fran retorted flippantly. "I'm worrying about eating until I get it." She grinned and began to gather her gardening tools.

"All right, Mr. Mystery," she glowered. "Here's to what?"

Burke grinned at her fondly. "A movie short," he said.

"A—movie short!" Fran and Mary gasped together.

"Sure. Our agent has it sewed up. We'll make more in a month than we would in six months at the Glass Hat."

Fran gulped her champagne all night after pinning the shimmering red-gold masses into tight curls, and they cleaned and aired the apartment, listening to a transcribed symphony, in which Fran joined with singing, or a spring dance from time to time. Mary switched off the radio as the telephone rang. Fran got it. It was Burke.

"Sounded excited," Fran said as she hung up. "Said for you and Ken to come on down tonight and celebrate. Don't ask me what. There are times when it's lucky for that man he's got a couple of phones between us. Now what do you suppose has happened?"

Ken couldn't go. Mary tried all evening to get him and finally he answered the inter-office phone. He

All America Knows
Budweiser...
but Few Know This

To Help a Child's Dream Come True

A candy castle...snowdrifts of marshmallow! What youngster hasn't seen them in his dreams?

To the great candy industry of America, corn syrup is a necessary ingredient. Used in other foods as well as candy, it contributes much to the energy and nutrition of the nation. Many millions of pounds of corn syrup are produced each year by Anheuser-Busch for manufacturers of many essential products. Our Corn Products Division is an industry in itself.

Year after year, we have striven with research and resources to better the methods and facilities for brewing Budweiser. To do this, a laboratory specializing in fermentation and nutrition was necessary. Discoveries made in the laboratory and in the plant have led to the development of products contributing to human necessity and progress. Some of these products would appear to have only a remote relationship to brewing, yet, they are the result of scientific research into many allied fields.

Endless research in making the world's leading beer has led to other products

VITAMINS, B COMPLEX—For manufacturers of pharmaceutical and food products. Our plant is one of the world's largest sources.

VITAMIN D—Anheuser-Busch produces enough of the basic material for Vitamin D to supply the entire American market.

BAKER'S YEAST—We are one of America's biggest suppliers of standard and enriched yeasts and malt syrup used to make bread.

SYRUPS—for food, table and confectionery uses and special syrups for medicinal purposes.

STARCH—for food, textile, paper and other industries—millions of pounds annually.

VITAMINS FOR LIVESTOCK—We are America's biggest supplier of yeast vitamins used to fortify animal feeds.

REFRIGERATING EQUIPMENT—for retailers of frozen foods and ice cream the country over. This division is now working all-out on glider wing and fuselage assemblies for our Armed Forces.

DIESEL ENGINES—Adolphus Busch, founder of Anheuser-Busch, acquired the first rights to manufacture this revolutionary engine in America and thus started our great Diesel industry on its way.

Parsons Graded And High School P-T.A. To Meet

Ralph Rowland, Forest Ranger, Will Speak on "Forest Fires"

PARSONS, Oct. 14.—The Parsons graded and high school will hold its first Parent-Teachers Association meeting Thursday in the graded school building in Parsons at 8 a.m. Mrs. George Donalds, President of the Association announced today.

Ralph Rowland, Forest Ranger, will speak on "Forest Fires." The program in charge of Mrs. M. E. Hillard, chairman of that committee will also include a solo "Trees," by Mrs. Ralph Wimer.

The following committee chairmen have been named for this year: H. Dale Ridgeway, chairman of the publicity; Miss Opal Lutz, chairman of the membership; Miss Elizabeth Repair, chairman of the finance. Mrs. Hillard has appointed the following teachers on the program committee: Miss Lila Thurston and Miss B. F. Harris of Parsons high school and Miss Edith Temple of the Parsons Graded school.

Randolph To Speak

Rep. Jennings Randolph will speak at a public meeting in the court house in Parsons Saturday evening, at 7 p.m. His subject will be "America at War."

Haddix Appointed

Ronald Haddix of Parsons has been appointed to fill the vacancy in the city Hall as city collector, treasurer and water plant operator for the town, caused when Tracy Nestor of Parsons resigned this week. He will enter the army on October 21.

Sewing Quota Received

Mrs. J. D. D. Duncan, chairman of the production department for the American Red Cross of Tucker county announced that the quota for the war relief sewing for the American Red Cross has been received in this county and will include making the following garments.

Ninety-five operating gowns, fifty women's petticoats, sixty-five women's slips, sixty girls' nightgowns, fifty-eight women's nightshirts and forty-seven shirts for men.

Mrs. Joseph Lawrence of Davis has been made as chairman of the sewing project for Davis district. Mrs. Lawrence Whipple for the sewing and knitting projects for Fairfax district and Miss Ross Smith for the knitting project for Davis.

The vacancy for the Blackford district has not been filled for the sewing or knitting. Mrs. J. E. Riley, chairman for several years resigned last week to move to Charleston.

Two New Teachers

Two new teachers were appointed for Tucker county schools at a meeting of the board of education held this week in Parsons, Reardon Cappett, county superintendent of schools stated today. They are William Talbot, of Parsons, as teacher in Davis high school, and Miss Ross Hugus, Clarksburg, teacher in the Parsons high school to replace Glenn K. Henry, who has enlisted in the United States Navy.

A substitute bus driver for the Thomas area, Ruben Schilansky, was appointed at the meeting. Any teacher in the county who wishes to attend the state meeting of the teachers in Huntington November 11 were granted permission to go and that day will be counted as taught.

A Works Project Administration Project sponsored by the Board of Education was released today for painting the sixteen bus stop buildings in this county at an estimated cost of $500. Mr. Corcoran, assistant county superintendent, stated that unless the bus stops were taken better care of after the painting job is completed that the buildings will be removed for next year.

52 Pass Tests

Fifty-two persons in Blackford district have completed their first aid training of ten hours to enable them to pass their courses for air raid wardens, auxiliary firemen, police and messengers.

Earl Corcoran was the instructor in the first aid, assisted by Miss Mary Rawlings Smith and Miss Ruby Kate Greider. Twenty-two are now eligible for air raid wardens; twelve for auxiliary firemen; eight for auxiliary police and ten for messenger service.

Scrap Is Collected

One hundred and thirty tons of scrap metal of all kinds have been collected and sold in this county since the campaign opened last week. A sixty-ton bridge over Black Fork river in Hamptown has been donated to the scrap drive. The Forest Service, with the co-operation of the Western Maryland Railroad and the State Road commission, will remove the bridge that is embedded in sand next week.

Model Schools

The eight-room newly constructed brick school between Hambleton and Hendricks and the three-room graded school at Douglas have been classified as model schools in the county. H. K. Baer, state supervisor of elementary schools, announced to the board of education today. They had previously been rated as first class schools.

course introduced this year by Principal Arthur P. Smith.

A book called "Victory Through Air Power" which was donated by Smith and dedicated to the boys and girls in the armed forces from Central is also being used for the new course. The school has adopted the title of this book for their slogan.

Additional reference books have been purchased by the school in order to explain more fully the facts of aeronautics. A weekly newspaper, "Current Aviation," is being used in the pre-flight training classes. It gives first-hand news from the aviation fronts.

Bradburn Honored

In honor of John E. Bradburn, who left today for Camp Meade to be inducted into the United States Army, a turkey dinner was given at Lefty's Place last evening by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac M. Bradburn.

Following the dinner Robert M. "Lefty" Grove showed moving pictures of baseball and a trip to Cuba. Those who attended the farewell party were Mr. and Mrs. John Schramm, Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Wilkes, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Groves, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Gardner.

Also Mrs. John E. Bradburn, Mrs. Robert Love, Mrs. Robert Matthews, Mrs. Nine Rowan, Dewey Groves and Miss Dorothy Rowan.

Select Slogan

The senior and junior classes of Central high school are taking a course in "Practical Nursing" in the home economics department with Miss Helen White as teacher.

The home economics classes have selected three slogans for the ensuing year, "Victory Through Economy," "Victory Through Good Grooming" and "Victory Through Good Nutrition".

Party Is Planned

Miss Margaret Robertson entertained the Jitterbug club at her home on St. Mary's terrace last evening. Games and refreshments were the features of entertainment. Plans were made to hold a Halloween party during the business meeting.

Those who met were Shirley Williams, Anna Cook, Jean Fields, Phillips Beeman, Dorothy Poland, Virginia Schramm and Rose Marie Stakeen.

and yet he will not read in school. He could read if he wanted to.

"He likes his teacher—and she is a splendid teacher. I like her very much and have tried to help her. I have always read to him a great deal, but she asked me to stop, thinking then he would try."

As I wrote this mother, she presses him too much to read at home. Having been a teacher herself, she is the more inclined to do so, and probably to get vexed at the lad. So much home pressure can cause a child to hate reading or any other subject."

Vision Test Urged

She would get far better results if he were induced, even hired, to read to another child under five or six. Then, as I also suggested to her, the boy's vision should be tested and she might aid him to get familiar with some of the basic sounds (some phonics), even to make sure he knows the letters of the alphabet.

In this child's case it might be well for the mother to read less to him or to stop now and then in the midst of an alluring story of easy language and be "too busy" to return to it soon. Impatient, the child then might choose to dig it out for himself.

Keep Up Reading

As a rule, however, it is well to keep on reading to the child even though he be slow at reading, in the early stages.

A parent who can print, or write in manuscript letters well, or, better still, who has a typewriter, may do much to help the beginner to learn to read. She has him tell her a story that he makes up which she writes or types. Then he naturally wants to read this story.

Any parent wishing further suggestions on helping the child to learn to read or to read better may have without cost, a copy of my "Home Helps for the Poor Reader," by writing me at 235 East Forty-fifth street, New York city, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Doris Doree Gets Opera Contract And a New Hat

Dancer Did Not Know She Could Sing until She Tried It

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—How do you know you can sing?

Until three years ago, Doris Doree never thought she could. Now, she's a full-fledged dramatic soprano, with a Metropolitan Opera contract, and a tendency to hum Wagnerian roles as she walks down the street.

And a new hat—"I never would have had the nerve to buy this hat before I got my contract," she said, turning this way and that before a backstage mirror to admire the purple and red confection with up-shooting red feathers.

"It looks like an opera singer's hat, don't you think so?"

Miss Doree, pleased as a child, marvels at her good fortune.

"I was a dancer, you know, I had a dancing school in Newark, N. J., and no one ever took a notice of my singing," she said. "I sang in the choir at my church, but I never sang in public.

Now I'm singing in public,

and I'm getting paid for it."

Don't be surprised if you feel all bogged down these war days! Look at how you live! Longer hours, harder work, irregular meals—your whole way of living's been upset. Specially eating habits. Meals are apt to be hurried, improperly balanced—and the important matter of bulk neglected.

And lack of "bulk" is one of the common causes of constipation! Medicinal laxatives give only temporary relief because they don't get at the cause. The answer to this kind of trouble is drinking plenty of water and eating a crisp, golden cereal—KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. For thin delicious breakfast food supplies the needed "bulk," corrects the cause. Why not start eating ALL-BRAN yourself? Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

sometimes, but only for my own amazement, as they say."

She might never have sung publicly if she hadn't gone broke in Philadelphia in 1939, after she had used her own money to pay off a troupe of dancers from her school.

"I had to do something, so I got a nightclub job dancing and they wanted me to sing, too, so I sang."

Pretty soon people noticed. Then she got scholarship singing lessons at the settlement school of music and then a Chicago cousin became interested and staked her to a lesson a day for three years, in New York.

And here she is at the age of 28 with a met contract!

Miss Doree always wanted to be a great dancer; did dance for awhile at Radio City, but, "I always knew in my heart I couldn't do it. I haven't the figure. I had to diet all the time and it made me ill."

Four Deeds Filed In Court Records

Four deeds were filed for record Monday in the clerk's office, Allegany county court house.

The Allegany Building, Loan and Savings Association transferred to the Church Extension Society of the Diocese of Maryland, incorporated lots Nos. 343, 344 and 345 of Rose Hill Estate, situated on the west side of Wallace street and Magruder street. The consideration was approximately $3,200.

William M. and Gladys E. Weatherholt conveyed to Carl Raymond and Katherine V. Weatherholt, two lots situated in the Dilfer farms addition, at the corner of Holland street and Chedwith avenue. The consideration was $400.

John H. Rase and Fannie Rase transferred to Glenn J. Pryor and Mildred H. Pryor a lot in Election District No. 24 near Eckhart, being a part of the "Scrub Ridge Farm".

Clarence Lippel, trustee, conveyed to the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland, a lot at Holland street and Owego avenue, in the Dilfer farms addition.

Three mortgages and nine conditional sales contracts were also filed for record.

Water Consumption Same As Last Year

Water consumption in Cumberland for the week ending Sunday averaged 9,226,000 gallons daily, according to a report of C. J. Bruce, water works superintendent. The total for the week was 64,590,000 gallons. This was about equal to the average for the same period a year ago, when 9,225,000 gallons daily were consumed.

CAN MEN CALL YOU “SCRAP SLACKER”?

No Matter What You've Already Done About Your Scrap Metal . . . Read This Now!

To win this war we've got to get more scrap, and you have the finest kind of scrap. You have it in the largest quantities. Your scrap takes the least work to prepare for the mills. Without your help, all the household scrap in America — important as it is — cannot stave off disaster!

So here's what you must do. Wake up to the fact that it's not enough just to clean out broken and useless equipment. We've got to keep going! Get out the stuff that's lying around because someone thinks it may be used some day. Make this the absolute, unchallenged rule:

IT IT HASN'T BEEN USED FOR SIX MONTHS,
AND YOU ARE CERTAIN IT WON'T BE USED
FOR THE NEXT SIX — SELL IT . . . OR SCRAP IT!

This is work for the boss to do — no one else can give the final word. If it's machinery, get in touch with the manufacturer, to see if someone else can use it. If they can't — scrap it! If it's a pile of extra parts or fixtures, sell or scrap the ones you don't need. If it's heavy stuff that has to be dismantled — do it, even if it costs more than the scrap will bring. Remember — you're not in this to make money . . . you're doing it to save our country from defeat!

Get your employees in on this. Listen to their suggestions . . . let them know you're in it all the way. But don't forget the real job is up to you! For if this job isn't done, if our community and all the others in America don't come through, steel mills will shut down. Then if we lose the war — what will the things you hoard be worth?

Stop for a moment and think of that!

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden mucus. It relieves pain to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beeswax creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly relieves the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

Truck Driver Is Ordered Held for Action of Grand Jury

Warrant Issued
At Keyser for
John S. Shahan

Coroner's Jury Recommends He Be Held in Heironimus Death

KEYSER, W. Va., Oct. 14.—A warrant charging involuntary manslaughter was issued against John Stewart Shahan, near Grafton, after a coroner's jury yesterday recommended he be held for the October term of Mineral County
Grand Jury in the death of Clark
Miner Heironimus, Washington, D.
C., school teacher.

Shahan was the driver of a coal truck that collided with the car in which Heironimus was killed September 16 on U. S. Route 50, eleven miles south of Keyser. Heironimus, driver of the car, was killed almost instantly. Shahan suffered the loss of his left arm and Miss Irene Hinear, aunt of Shahan, was seriously injured about the face.

The hearing was deferred until this morning because of the serious illness of these witnesses.

The Jury empaneled by Coroner
C. C. Compton to investigate the cause of the death of Heironimus returned the following verdict:

"We, the jury, find that Clark
W. Miner Heironimus met his death when the car he was driving was struck by a truck driven by one John Stewart
Shahan."

"We, the jury, recommend that John Philip Shahan, driver of the truck, be held for the action of the Mineral County
Grand Jury."

Prosecuting Attorney Lester Reynolds conducted the examination of witnesses for the state and asked Compton to issue the involuntary manslaughter warrant after the jury returned its recommendation.

Shahan has not been placed in custody because of his health but Reynolds said bond probably will be set this week. Shahan was not present at the hearing but was represented by R. A. Welch.

Mineral County Grand Jury concluded October 20.

10 Hold Clinic

An immunization clinic will be held at the county health offices in the court house from 11 to 13 o'clock Friday. First year school children who have not been immunized for typhoid and smallpox should be brought to the clinic. Parents with younger children are urged to bring them.

The clinic will be under the direction of Miss Anne McCauley, county health nurse. One or more doctors will be present to make the inoculations.

Boys Pick Apples

The United States Employment Service with the co-operation of the Mineral county board of education has arranged for forty-five or more Keyser high school boys to help harvest the bumper apple crop. The boys work in shifts so that none of them miss more than one week of school.

The boys are transported to and from work in trucks owned by the orchards and work eight hours a day. They are paid at the rate of 4 cents per bushel with a one-cent per bushel bonus if they work a full week.

Perrin Home Is Damaged by Fire

FLINTSTONE, Oct. 14.—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Perrin, one-half mile off of Baltimore Pike, near Flintstone was damaged by fire early Monday evening. The east portion of the house was badly wrecked, but the fire was brought under control by about seventy-five men who came from the near by country side, saving the main part of the home.

Church Circle Meets

The W. S. C. S. Circle No. 2, was entertained at the home of Mrs. Howard Humberston, Tuesday night. Mrs. Leah Twigg and Mrs. Lester Hinkle were in charge of the devotions.

Homemakers Meet

The program planning committee of the Flintstone Homemakers Club met at the home of Mrs. R. O. Dolly, Monday evening. Further plans were made for the Community Achievement day program to be held in the school auditorium, Saturday evening Nov. 14.

Personals

Mrs. A. C. Wilson, Cumberland is visiting in Flintstone.

Pvt. Gay Stroestreet returned to Camp Meade after a leave of three days.

Aubrey Mauze returned to Baltimore after visiting his family here a few days.

Scrap Will Be Collected Today
In Lonaconing

Collection Is Postponed
Due to Rain; Many Articles Are Ready

LONACONING, Oct. 14.—Lona-coning citizens were anxious to "get in the scrap" today but due to the drizzling rain Lloyd Durst, chairman, met with the committee, and it was decided to postpone the collection day until tomorrow beginning at 6 o'clock in the afternoon.

Lonaconing, the town that was put on the map following the first World war for sending, according to the population, the most men into Uncle Sam's service, won't let the inclement weather put the dampers on their enthusiasm in the scrap metal and rubber drive.

Gives Old Safe

Donations are pouring in one right after the other. The James M. Sloan family on Jackson street is giving a huge safe that was used in their store which was operated until a few years ago. The safe, which is ninety-four years old, is estimated to weigh 1,000 pounds but its weight will be corroborated tomorrow when it is moved to the scrap heap at the grist mill.

Alvin Green is donating a gas engine that was used by the New Central Coal Company to pump air into their mines on Big Vein mountain. The company sold out to Green, who now owns the mine.
The engine, which weighs a few tons, will be disassembled and hauled to the pile as soon as the weather permits.

Woodson Will Speak

George Woodson, national representative of the Townsend Plan, in West Virginia, will speak and answer questions at Innkeepers Hall Moorefield at 2:30 Sunday. Several other speakers will be in the program planned by the local unit of the Townsend Club Plan. Woodson is a native of Kentucky who has spent most of his life in the coal mines in Illinois. He is former president of the Springfield, Ill., Federation of Labor and is general organizer of the Retail Clerks International Union.

Judge Calhoun Honored

Harlan M. Calhoun, judge of the Twenty-second Judicial circuit composed of Hardy, Hampshire and Pendleton counties, was named president of the West Virginia Judicial association in Wheeling Friday.

Judge Calhoun was also named one of the vice-presidents of the West Virginia Park Association which met concurrently with the judicial association. Charles C. Wise, Jr., of Charleston and a native of Moorefield, was also named one of the vice-presidents of the Bar association.

Fair Is Planned

The Colored Community Fair, the first of its kind to be held in the history of Hardy county, will be held from 6 till 8 o'clock at the Colored Community Hall.

The community fair is one of a series being held by Home Demonstration Agent Louise Carter, sponsored by the extension division, 4-H clubs and farm women's clubs in the state.

The program will include demonstrations, a talk by Miss Carter a playlet, a program by the 4-H club, and will be followed by program in the church from 8 until 9. Miss Carter requested that all exhibits be placed in the community hall for judging by 5 o'clock Friday evening.

Conference Is Held

Mrs. Randolph Shields, recently returned missionary from China and Mrs. Bruce Slonaker, Presby-terial president, were speakers at the group conference of District B, Women's Auxiliary of the Winchester Presbyterian which was held in the local church Friday. The conference was an all-day meeting, with a picnic lunch being served in the church rooms.

Theaters Today*Robert Young Teams With Singing Star

Brimming over with melody and mirth, "Cairo," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's newest musical film, starring Jeanette MacDonald, opens today at the Maryland theater.

Robert Young teams with the singing star for the first time in the romantic comedy poking fun at Hollywood's conception of spy dramas. Ethel Waters, famed colored actress and singer, makes her debut in "Cairo."

Miss MacDonald has a made-to-order role. She plays Marcie Warren, a famous American movie star who is stranded in Europe when war breaks out. Young is a small-town newspaper reporter sent abroad to cover the war. He meets Miss MacDonald in Cairo where the singer is giving a concert for British soldiers. The plot is given an amusing twist when Young begins to believe Miss MacDonald is a spy and she thinks the same about him. He is hired as her Butler and the hilarious situations come thick and fast. All the time-worn cliches of movie spy dramas are hauled out by Director W. S. Van Dyke II, who lets his stars lampoon them for all they are worth.

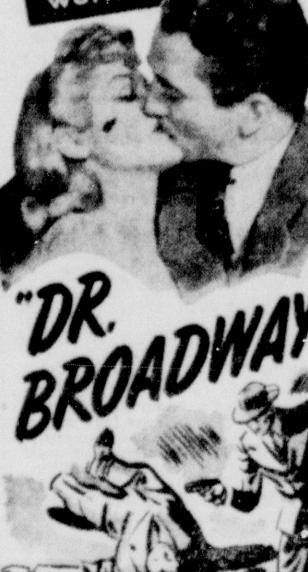

Carefully and expertly woven into the gay, frothy story are the musical numbers sung by Miss MacDonald and Miss Waters, who plays her maid. The red-haired star

"Thunder River Feud" which currently adorns the Embassy theater screen not only provides heaps of fun for film fans but proves that producer George Weeks is a genius at settling squabbles and dissension in the ranks.

Producer Weeks has had the usual troubles in turning out this highly popular series, but when out of a clear sky his number one fighting fool, "Crash" Corrigan demanded that he be allowed to play straight roles in multi, Mr. Weeks was stunned to say the least. Previous to that, "Alibi" Terhune had demanded billing and extra pay for "Elmer," his dummy, but Mr. Weeks straightened that out, and "Dusty" King had demanded protection against feminine admirers who kept proning him collect over long distance, and Mr. Weeks straightened that out—but now Corrigan—and Corrigan wanting to play dice parts!

Quiet discussion, tearful pleading murmurs of "law suits" failed to dislodge Corrigan's stand, so as a last resort, Weeks gave in with reservations however. "Thunder River

Stock Market Leaders Sell Off, Specialties Make Slight Gains

American Telephone
Drops Two Points in Light Trading

By BERNARD S. OHARA

NEW YORK, Oct. 14. (P)—Most stock market leaders suffered a minor setback today after the last week's fast forward run but a group of specialties took the ball near the close and pushed into substantially higher territory.

A few of the pivots slipped off a point or so after a steady start and American Telephone dropped 2. While these moves inspired some general selling the market through-

U. S. Steel closed unchanged and Bethlehem off 1%. United Aircraft edged up 1%. Standard Oil (N.J.) and Texas Co. were a shade higher.

Curb losers included Aluminum of America, American Cyanamid, International Petroleum, Electric Bond & Share and Penn-Central Airlines. Fractionally higher were Gulf Oil, Lake Shore Mines and Northern States Power "A". Transfers here were 101,745 shares against 124,465 yesterday.

The bond market had a few firm spots among the rails and utilities but the general trend of the corporate list was clouded by numerous small losses in virtually all departments.

Trading was less active than in recent sessions, with total sales at $8,202,700, par value, the smallest since Sept. 4, and compared with $10,026,500 on Tuesday. In the Associated Press averages, the rails and industrials each lost 1 of a point.

Allegany Getting Set for C. V. A. L. Opener

Much-Improved
Dick Anderson
May Start Game

Three Holdover Regulars
Will Be in Hagerstown
Lineup

Allegany high's grididers, preparing to open defense of their Cumberland Valley Athletic League title against Eddie Semler's Hagerstown high eleven at the Fort Hill stadium tomorrow night at 8 o'clock, are being held back in their workouts by unfavorable weather. Coach Herman Ball said last night.

Ball reported that the West Sideers, who have rung the bell for 124 points in winning three games this season while holding opposing teams scoreless, are in top physical condition for what may prove to be the first real test for Allegany's "T" minded outfit this year.

The Campobello mentor, who has used the same starting eleven in all three of Allegany's games to date, indicated last night that he is considering one change.

Dick Anderson, 150-pound junior halfback, has been showing steady improvement, Ball said, and is pushing Jack Smith, 165-pound senior, for a starting berth. Ball hasn't quite made up his mind yet whether to start Anderson but it is certain that he will see plenty of action.

Seniors Seek First Win

Hagerstown will be coming here seeking its first victory of the season. The Hub City boys were trimmed 34-0 by Washington and Lee high at Arlington, Va., in their opener and last week were turned back 21-6 by Calvin Coolidge high.

Three holdover regulars, all linemen, are the center of the team, Semler said. They are Stubits and McKnight, tackles, and Smead, center. Smead, who missed last week's game due to an injury, will be ready to go again tomorrow night. However, Semler said that only three seniors will be in the starting lineup and that next year's team should be a much stronger aggregation.

Hagerstown has one of the lightest and most inexperienced outfits in recent years with Stubits, 196-pound left tackle, the heaviest man on the squad.

Fort Hill Plays Bulldogs

Substitute ends are Athey, 158; Fisher, 162. Other tackles are Thayer, 168; Wolfinger, 158, and G. Nye, 151, while other guards include Callas, 145; Sheeler, 158, and Feigley, 163.

Smead's understudy at center is Bruce, 165, while reserve backs are Eversole, 140; Hose, 123; Remsburg, 158; Dornberger, 145; Marsh, 162, and Reynolds, 150.

Allegany was forced to take to the air last week in trimming Alumni 23-0 but with Hagerstown lacking the weight of the Blue and White grads, the Campers will probably return to deceptive ground plays made possible by the "T."

Coch Bill Hahn's Port Hill High Sentinels, who have scored twenty-five points more than Allegany in the same number while also keeping their goal uncrossed, will launch their CVAL season Saturday, taking on the Martinsburg High Bulldogs at Martinsburg, W. Va., Saturday afternoon.

Although they have split in two games, the Bulldogs, again coached by John Cobourn, aren't expected to offer the high-scoring Sentinels much opposition. Martinsburg bowed 12-0 to Charles Town last week after measuring Berkeley Springs 18-6.

Diamond Sessions Will Open Dec. 1

Joint Meeting of Major and Minor Leagues Set for Dec. 3

CHICAGO, Oct. 14. (AP)—The wartime program for baseball will be mapped at a double-header meeting of the major and minor leagues in Chicago starting Dec. 1.

The separate meetings of the National and American Leagues will be held Dec. 1 and 2. Kerosene Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, today set Dec. 3 as the date for the joint meeting of the two leagues. The sessions originally scheduled for New York, were switched to Chicago because it is at the hub of the transportation system.

After the major leaguers finish their deliberations, the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues—the minors—will swing into a two-day session Dec. 4 and 5. This meeting originally was scheduled for Minneapolis, but was cancelled a month ago by William G. Bramham, president of the national association, however, developments enabled Bramham to plan the skeletonized Chicago conference.

LITTLE MATTER OF 60 POUNDS

Alumni Gridders
To Provide Tough
Test for LaSalle

Phil Carolan Coaching
Grads for Contest Saturday Night

The LaSalle High Explorers, who crashed into the victory column in a big way last week after dropping their first two games of the season, are getting ready for tough assignment this weekend.

Coach Jack Plum's Blue and Gold grididers, who chalked up a 41-0 triumph over Ridgeley after losing to Altoona Catholic and Moorefield's Yellow Jackets, will tangle with a heavy and experienced Alumni combination Saturday night at 8 o'clock at the Fort Hill stadium.

The game is being billed as a "Booster" contest, taking the place of Johnstown Catholic high on the Explorer schedule. LaSalle had been slated to meet the Crimson Crusher tomorrow night at Johnstown but the tussle was cancelled earlier this week when the locals were unable to arrange suitable transportation.

"Everybody thinks we're trying to fool 'em," said Donelli, one-time internationally-known soccer star. "But we're not."

Speed with Deception

"We simply use our deception at top speed, with as little motion in the backfield as possible," he explained. "A great many coaches say the soundest deception is in slow ball handling, with hand fakes to make the other fellow think someone's got the ball."

"But it's just the opposite with us. We utilize every bit of speed in our backfield and base our attack on the idea that nobody's got the ball."

We want opposing linemen to wonder who's got it, and not guess. As long as they think we're fooling them, we'll win our ball games."

Donelli's attack basically is the Notre Dame "box," but he is using the "T" formation more this year.

He has his own variation of the "man in motion," in which both that player and the other halfback handle the ball equally as much.

"Great Team Players"

The 35-year-old coach says his team "isn't one of stars," adding "we've had a lot of boys who wouldn't have been regulars on other teams. But they're great team players."

The Dukes have been rolling along a spectacular clip since midway of the 1940 season, when Mississippi dumped them 14-6. That was the last Duquesne defeat, and, coupled with a 10-10 tie with the U. of Detroit in 1939, is the only blur on a record that rates as one of the finest in the nation.

Included are victories over such teams as Pitt, Marquette, Villanova, St. Mary's, Carnegie Tech (when Bill Kern had the Eskimos up), Mississippi, South Carolina, Mississippi State, and Holy Cross.

McCarthy Fires
Yankee Trainer

Dr. Earl Painter Says No
Explanation of His Dismissal Made

NEW YORK, Oct. 14. (AP)—After having been trainer of the Yankees for thirteen years, Dr. Earl Painter has been dismissed by Manager Joe McCarthy of the American League champions.

The veteran mender of a thousand breaks and sprains was thoroughly angry today as he called at the Yankee office to turn in his keys. He just had returned from an interview with Manager McCarthy at Buffalo, where he said he was denied an explanation of the firing.

"The first I knew of it was a letter from McCarthy," he said. "I went up to ask him why—if there had been anything wrong with my work—but all I got was a promise to recommend me to other clubs. I think it's just that he has somebody else he wants to give the job to."

"It's no way to treat a man after thirteen years."

Painter said he was leaving for St. Petersburg, Fla., to dispose of his home there and probably would return to this area to open a private practice.

Sports Editor "Hazed"
After His Comments
On Team's Bad Showing

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Oct. 14. (AP)—Sports Editor Bob Wimberly of the Northwest Arkansas Times reported today that a group he described as members of the Arkansas football team shaved his head and doused his arms and legs with oil of cloves Monday night. Wimberly said it was done in apparent resentment at comments he made on the team's extended losing streak.

Arkansas lost its twelfth straight Southwest Conference game to Baylor here Saturday and Wimberly, a university student who also serves as sports editor of the semi-weekly Arkansas Traveler, student publication, commented in the daily paper that the game looked like a contest for the conference cellar.

Wimberly said about thirty members of the squad participated in the "hazing" but added that he did not intend to press charges.

"I just hope they show the same determination of attack in their gridiron battle against the Texas Longhorns this week," he grinned.

Donelli Credits Team's Success on Deception at Top Speed

BY ARDEN SKIDMORE

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 14. (AP)—Aldo (Buff) Donelli, whose baffling Duquesne Dukes boast a sixteen-game winning streak and twenty-six triumphs in twenty-eight games, today credited the Dukes' victory sweep to an attack "based on the idea nobody's got the ball."

The Dukes, whose football magic has befuddled three hapless foes already this season, get one of their hardest tests this Saturday against North Carolina's Tarheels at Chapel Hill, N. C., in a game scheduled only last night.

"Everybody thinks we're trying to fool 'em," said Donelli, one-time internationally-known soccer star. "But we're not."

Speed with Deception

Will Start Flight
Training on Nov. 15

BOSTON, Oct. 14. (AP)—Naval flight board headquarters announced last night that Ted Williams, American League triple batting crown winner, and Teammate Johnny Pesky of the Boston Red Sox would start flight training at Amherst college November 15.

Williams and Pesky will be naval air cadets with a group which includes First Baseman Louis "Buddy" Gremp and Pitcher John Sain of the Boston Braves, and Paul Kluck, a catcher with the Louisville farm team of the Boston Red Sox.

Webster, Aggies' Grid Star, Is Ace At Extra Points

"Automatic Jake" Lose Knack when It Comes to Field Goals

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Oct. 14 (Wide World)—If the Texas Aggies want a point after touch-down kicked they call on Automatic Jake Webster with the assurance that if he misses it will be an accident.

Automatic Jake sends the ball between the bars nine times out of ten. In fact, his record is a little better than that if you can do such a thing as split an extra point.

But if the Aggies want a field goal that's something else. Jake just doesn't kick them.

This unusual circumstance of a fellow who can plant the ball between the uprights until it gets monotonous when the Aggies are scoring touchdowns but can't even kick in the immediate vicinity if they're going after three points stands unexplained at Texas A. and M.

He Booted One

Webster, who set a modern national record last season by kicking twenty-nine out of thirty-two attempts on A. and M.'s Southwest Conference champions, did score one field goal in his college career.

A BAD SUIT TO BREAK

MAKING the first lead, in a suit which has the queen opposite the partner's jack, is often costly to the side which does it. If the side holding those cards makes the first lead, it gets no trick in the suit, if the ace and king are in different hands, unless it also has a well-located ten or nine. If, however, the opponents lead it, then the jack or queen is surely promoted to top rank for the third round.

That contract got four different kinds of play at four duplicate tables, only one declared making it, though the lead was always the spade 4 to the 10.

The first declarer then led the heart 8 to the J and K, the spade 3 to the K and then broke clubs with the 5 to the J and K. Fearing other returns, South put dummy in with a diamond, five tricks there ensuing. Declarer then had to lead clubs again. He used the 8 to the 10. A heart return gave North the Q and A, and the club A set it.

At another table dummy followed the spade 10 with the K and then led a club to the J and K. A spade return knocked out the A and a second club brought the 10, Q and A. The club 9, spade 9 to the Q and heart 4 to the A beat that contract.

At a third table dummy led a club to the second trick. A spade was returned to the K, a second club to the 10, a third spade to the A, a third club to the Q and A and then it was set by the spade Q and heart A.

The declarer who made it followed the spade 10 with the K, then led the heart 8. With two major tricks sure by East, if North ducked, and five diamonds to complete the contract, North had to play his heart A. For exit he used a diamond, but after five tricks there dummy sent the club J to the K. South returned the 10, to avoid leading into East's set-up spade and heart. West played low and North naturally did. Now South had only major cards left, so East got the two tricks he needed to make his contract.

GOP Makes Gain Of 350 Voters Over Democrats

Allegany County Has 44,
553 Registered Voters
Now, Hewitt Reports

Republicans have gained 350 voters over the Democrats in Allegany county in the past two years, according to figures released yesterday by Lawrence A. Hewitt, clerk to the Board of Election Supervisors.

The latest figures were compiled following one registration day preceding the September 8 primary and two registration days and one revision day prior to the general election on Tuesday, November 3.

There are now 44,553 registered voters in the thirty-three districts and seventy-five polling places, a reduction of twenty-four voters under the total registration of 44,577 in 1940.

Democrats Lose Ground

The Democrats lost 220 voters during the two-year period, dropping from 19,948 in 1940 to the present total of 19,728.

Since 1940, however, 130 additional Republican voters were placed on the books. The present Republican registration total is 24,442. In 1940 there were 24,312 G.O.P. registered voters.

Out of a total of 44,553 registered voters in the county at the present time, 383 are listed as declining to give their party affiliation, Socialists and voters of other parties.
